THE TIN WEDDING.

Two years have passed—ah! how fast the years fly—
Since our hostess and host, nothing lovely, were made one.
And it needs but a glance at their faces to see—
That their lives since that hour have run pleasantly on.
And now, prating wedding all blessings above,
They propose the old story once more to begin;
But the lady who married the first time for love,
The second time marries, as usual, for tin.
Single life is a bore; when in Eden alone
Adam doted, of his own stupid company tired;
But awaking and seeing his beautiful boy,
Nothing more or less than that young fellow desired.
A bachelor's Robinson Crusoe life;
Seems to me a poor life nearest akin;
A man's morally poor till he's blest with a wife,
Though his bank-book may show that he's oceans of tin.
Young men yet unwed, of your freedom don't boast;
Know the married man's home's true Liberty Hall;
If you question it, look at our hostess and host,
And tell us, now, when they look like a thrill.
No, wedding's a block that, when love turns the key,
Is an Eden of bliss to each pair bit bolts in;
I have tried it myself, and I would not go free,
For all California's suitors tin.
What say you, young ladies? Pray, tell us the truth;
Don't you think a good husband of good is the sum?
Spinster life's well enough in the heyday of youth,
But in age, let me tell you, 'tis awfully grim.
'Tis your duty to comfort our sex all you can;
For yours was the cause of original sin.
So each of you choose a good-looking young man,
And don't mind, if he's worthy, the absence of tin.

The Story of a Young Girl's Struggle With Adversity.

CHAPTER XXIII.—CONTINUED.

Did they have a cat at their house? Yes, certainly, and a litter went round the room, making the hairy mole on Mother Tartrum's chin tremble. Did they have a kitten? The prosecuting attorney did not see that this was relevant, but the justice did. Yes, they had a kitten. How old was the kitten? Four or five months old. Was it a very playful kitten? It was, but was never known to open a carpet bag and hide away a gold bracelet. This produced a laugh at the lawyer's expense, and Mother Tartrum clapped her hands for joy, while the hairy mole on her chin was greatly agitated.

The lawyer then asked Hattie. If she knew who put the hole in the carpet bag? No, she did not. Did she do it? "No," very indignantly.

She was dismissed and Mrs. Arnold sworn. Her examination in chief was the same as her daughter's. Then on cross-examination she admitted that it was not dark when Helen and "Pete," the peddler, were at her house, that Helen's brother was with her and both were soaked with rain. That Pete was a man of good character, and that they stated that Pete had found Helen and her little brother under a tree, and he volunteered to carry the little boy that far. She even thought, that there might be nothing wrong in her coming there with Pete. Mother Tartrum at this point shook her head. Mrs. Arnold stated that they had a cat, yes, they had an old cat, and that old cat had two kittens, they were very playful kittens too, but she had never known them to hide things in people's valises. Might not the bracelet have rolled from the dressing case? It might, she admitted, but it was not likely to roll into some other person's carpet bag.

Had she ever heard Helen's character questioned prior to this event? Well, there had been some rumors. Mother Tartrum and Grundy nodded their heads approvingly. What were they? She could not repeat them, but they went to show that she was not as good as she ought to be.

Had she not helped to circulate these rumors? She might have repeated them. Had she not advised Mrs. Stuart to discharge Helen? Mrs. Arnold was confused, and stammered out something about its being for the good of the family.

"Speak out, Mrs. Arnold," said Layman, severely. "Did you, or did you not advise Mrs. Stuart to discharge her?"

After a moment's confusion, she stammered, "yes."
"And then employed her yourself?"
The lady, still more confused, answered that she did. She left the witness stand greatly perplexed, but still clear as to the bracelet being found in Helen's possession. It was found among some handkerchiefs wrapped up in a piece of blue calico goods, new, and evidently just out of the piece. The calico was produced. She had never seen it before; it was found in Helen's carpet bag, and Helen whispered to her attorney that she had never seen it either, until that fatal morning. Did not the goods really belong to Mrs. Arnold? She said: "No."

Mother Tartrum next took the stand and said the "gal was no better'n she art to be—allers said she'd come to bad. Was not the least bit surprised when she heard she'd stole a bracelet." On cross-examination, said she didn't think it nice for a "gal to be rumm'n' about after night with men. What men had Helen run about with after night? She heard she went home one night with Warren Stuart from meetin'. Did not other girls allow young men to accompany them home from church? The lady mole trembled and her eyes flashed with rage. "Other gals didn't come to people's houses with strange men" after night to stay all night." When had she gone to any one's house with a strange man? She went to Judge Arnold's. This was thrown out with a side glance of fire.

Did not Mrs. Arnold say that Helen and Pete came there before night? Mother Tartrum was caught. Her face was dark with wrath, and she left the stand more hopelessly confused than Mrs. Arnold. Mother Grundy came next and was no better.

But the discovery of the bracelet in Helen's carpet bag, and her admission of the fact to the sheriff fastened the guilt upon her. The evidence was all in, and the justice cleared his throat, elevated his glasses and rubbed the top of his head, very much as if he had a painful duty to perform.

CHAPTER XXIII.

THE ACQUITTAL.

Squire Bluffers was rubbing his head as if he was in no hurry to decide this case. He calmly surveyed the audience who waited his decision. His eyes rested nervously for a moment upon the pale yet calm features of the prisoner. Judge Arnold, with arms folded, sat erect, his short roan whiskers almost horizontal with his ears. He looked triumphant. To him there was but one way a man of common sense could decide.

Mrs. Arnold's head was once more high in the air. Hattie is triumphant and Mother Tartrum occasionally sends fiery glances at Helen and her lawyer. At this moment hurried footsteps were heard upon the pavement without. During the last moments of the trial the belated train had come in from Stratton, and these hurried steps came from the depot.

Two men came in at the door and commenced elbowing their way through the dense crowd which packed the court room.

"I say, Squire Bluffers," cried the well-known voice of Pete, the peddler, "hev' ye measured this case and torn it off yet? If ye haven't, I've got some remnants o' testimony to throw into the bargain."

Pete, with Warren Stuart close behind him, now struggled through to the small open space about the justice. Warren's face was pale and his mouth showed a firmness that his friends had not seen before.

Judge Arnold arose, bowed and smiled warmly, and took his hand. Warren's greeting was cool, but he was silent. He did not speak to Helen. There was no emotional, tropical, running forward and embracing as we read of in sensational novels, they merely glanced at each other and Mrs. Bridges felt Helen's hand tremble.

A discussion now arose as to whether the case was closed, past hearing further testimony or not. The attorney for the State insisted that it was, and Helen's attorney insisted that it was not.

The justice agreed with the attorney for the defense.

"Now, I just want to tell that lawyer for that gal somethin'," said Pete. "I think I kin make somethin' clear."

Five minutes was given Mr. Layman to consult with the new witness.

"What is she accused o' stealin'?"

Pete asked.

"A gold bracelet."

"Any thing else?"

"No."

"No money?"

"No, that is only a slanderous rumor started by some designing person."

Pete then whispered for a few moments with the attorney, and they returned.

The peddler wanted to go after his pack before he gave in his testimony to the justice and was granted permission by the Squire.

He went out, and in a few minutes came back with his pack of goods on his back. He set it down on the floor, and was sworn.

Judge Arnold looked puzzled, his wife alarmed, and Hattie confused. Mothers Tartrum and Grundy were no little perplexed, and the mole was trembling again.

"Do you know Helen Lakeman?"

asked the attorney for the defense.

"I do—she's an all-wed gal, too, an'

no mistake."

"Never mind figurative speech, Pete just answer straightforward. Did you see her on the evening she went to Mrs. Arnold's?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where did you see her first that evening?"

"I was under a big tree in the lane."

"She an' her little brother had stopped under it, out o' the rain."

"What did you say to them?"

"I got 'em to go with me to Judge Arnold's house," said Pete. "I was goin' there to stay all night, an' I carried her little broder."

"What time did you get there?"

"It was just about sundown. It was still rainin' an' I couldn't exactly tell the time, but it was a good bit afore dark."

"Who met you at the door?"

"Mrs. Arnold."

"You stayed there all night?"

"Yes."

"Where did you sleep that night?"

"Up-stairs, right over the parlor."

"Are you an early riser?"

"Yes, sir. I'm allers up before any-body else. I want to see the sun come up shinin' through the tree tops as bright as fifteen-cent calico."

"Was you up early that morning?"

"Yes, an' I had left my pack in the hall an' I went down to see if any thing was damp, an' when I gits down there I heard somethin' rattlin' behind my pack, an' pullin' it 'round saw a purty little white kitten playin' with a gold bracelet."

"Would you know the bracelet?"

"I think I would; there was two little dents like somethin' had bit it on the under side. I took my knife an' cut a cross just between 'em."

"What do you say as to this being the bracelet?"

The lawyer handed Pete the bracelet which had been exhibited so frequently that morning.

"That's it," said Pete, "an' here's the cross I marked with my knife."

He exhibited it to the justice, who was now all interest and attention.

"What did you do with that bracelet?" asked Mr. Layman.

"I shot that bracelet belonged to Miss Lakeman. Her mother had a pair like 'em once, and I was sure it was hers, and she or her brother had dropped it there. I took a piece of the piece in my pack," taking it out and fitting the two pieces together.

"Now, by the leave of the court, I will ask Judge Arnold a question," said Mr. Layman.

Leave was granted.

"Judge, where did you purchase this bracelet and the mate to it?"

"I bought 'em, and the Judge, 'saint him, and dignified," at the administrator's sale of the property of Mr. Benjamin Lakeman, deceased."

"Had they not been his wife's jewelry?"

"I do not know."

"They belonged to the family?"

"I suppose so, I paid forty dollars for the pair."

Source of Diphtheria.

Two years ago an epidemic of sore throat broke out in England which soon showed an infectious character, and the schools had to be closed. The district was previously free from sore throat disease of every kind. It was ascertained that the first cases had their milk from a particular farm. This being visited, it was found that, within a few months, there had been five separate attacks of foot and mouth disease, and that one cow was still suffering from it. There is evidence that diphtheritic sore throat has been communicated in the same way.—Lancet.

A bad breath may be caused as follows, no matter what the cause: Three hours after breakfast a teaspoonful of the following mixture: Chlorate of potash, two drams; sweetened water, four ounces; wash the mouth occasionally with the mixture and the breath will be as sweet as an infant's.—Health and Home.

A Schuyler (Neb.), farmer sent East for a hundred cats and turned them out to find homes for themselves

ABOUT HOUSEWORK.

The Most Healthful, Varied and Profitable Occupation for Women.

American women are not a proverbially strong race. They are intelligent beyond most nationalities—that is, in greater numbers. The strong-brained, executive woman who is known to public life, justly and well known for excellence in any department of science, art or literature, is exceptional everywhere, and with her, be she English, Scotch, French, American or any other race, we do not have to do when we speak of the special intelligence of the American woman.

But of the large number of women who help to make up the American people probably the great majority read and think and act with more or less intelligence.

Yet the problem how to become a strong race is still unsolved, and until it is made the subject of more extensive thought and research and importance among thinking women it must stay so.

Undoubtedly climatic influence has much to do with our nervous, highly-strung temperaments. Our variability of weather, from intensely hot to very cold, from wet to dry, from calm languor of atmosphere to high and gusty winds must produce some effect upon the physical constitution of those who are subjected to these changes. And a vast amount of good sense and knowledge is required to so adapt the clothing and modes of life to these variations as to be never caught unawares and unprepared.

But habits of life have a great deal to do with race healthfulness. Work of various kinds, in which women engage have tendencies to make them strong or otherwise. Too often it is otherwise and not strong.

As a worker woman needs short intervals of work and then a time for rest. I am not comparing her working power with that of man. They ought not to be compared as they frequently are to the prejudice of woman. When a certain salary is affixed to a piece of work and paid to whoever does it, irrespective of sex, women will have less cause to complain of injustice than they sometimes have at present.

In compulsion, or to make a woman can work just as a man works is to expect David to wear Saul's armor. In her own way she does well enough. If all women did all they were fully capable of, notwithstanding the disability of being women, and not men, in the battling force of this world, there would be a revolution of affairs at once.

But some women will utterly disregard every known hygienic law, then wonder why women can't be strong. They eat badly, they sleep too little or too much, they keep irregular hours, they work too long, they take too much exercise or too much at one time, they breathe bad air, they dress too thinly, wear tight corsets, badly fitting shoes, heavy dresses, and then wonder that they are not strong.

Some women can do away with all, or most of these evils at once by taking the proper food to keep a servant can not so readily mend their lives.

But no employment women engage in has in it more of the elements of healthful living than housework. Ordinarily speaking, it is not a matter of particular commiseration when a woman is kept at home to keep a servant and must do a large share of her own work. She finds in it healthful activity for both body and mind. And if her family is not unreasonably large, or she suffering from weakness which makes the actual work too much for her strength, she ought to find in it happiness and strength.

Probably the very largest number of families do their own work in America, and there is some intelligence among almost the poorest and meanest. And with our form of Government it will be an evil day when this ceases to be the rule.

The run of sloopy shop-work, where ill-fitting, poorly-sewed clothing is gotten up at less than cost of making, will be over when women refuse to buy, wear or make such clothing, and turn to the domestic life in their own homes, and seek to keep in preference to doing such work at the mercantile place given for it.

Housework is the one employment among women seemingly most is disrepute, yet it is the one thing which most women can do, and do well if they will. The variety of occupation, the activity of strength required, the regular hours usually kept, and the mental acumen needed to make people comfortable, all tend to make the life of the houseworker a strong and healthful one.

Yet women don't like to do it—think life is dull if they are compelled to drudge in the kitchen, and homes and boarding-houses suffer in consequence.

Would that American women as a whole might be blessed with a strong common sense on this subject, and so dignify housework as to have some pride in being an adept in its useful arts, and learn to profit by its health-giving exercise.—Christianity of Work.

RUSSIAN PRISONS.

The Terrible Rate of Mortality Prevailing Among the Inmates of Jails.

Prison's has just issued its report for 1885. On the 1st of January, 1885, there were 94,488 persons incarcerated throughout the empire. In the course of the year 703,254 entered and 697,769 individuals were liberated, leaving a residue of 99,973 still in prison. Women formed about 8 per cent. of the convicted. Notwithstanding a certain amelioration of sanitary appliances in the jails, the rate of mortality remained stationary. Of the 88,092 prisoners who were treated in hospital, there died 2,189 men, 246 women, 546 children. In this respect the island of Saghalien stood in the worst position; its sick list showing a total of 66 per cent. on the year, but the number of deaths there are not given. Diseases arising from humidity, insufficient ventilation, and defective sanitary arrangements are the chief scourges of the state prisons. Among the 4,029 persons who passed through the prisons of St. Petersburg 2,675 were accused of theft, 139 of political offences, one of bigamy and one of apostasy. The largest number of offenders belonged to the artisan class; not one is specified as a peasant. The expenses of the penitentiary service in the whole empire amounted to 11,798,614 rubles, being a diminution of 321,239 rubles upon the expenditure of the preceding year. This economy was partially effected by reducing the cost of the equipment of the prisoners. There was a falling off in the receipts derived from the products of the prisoners' industry from 132,750 rubles in 1884 to 108,550 rubles in 1885. Moreover the Coal Mining Company of Saghalien, which has been supplied with fuel for the State 31,456 rubles for the right conceded to it.—London Times.

CURRENT TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

It is rumored that "Jones of Michigan" has found gold in the cliffs of Menfice.

Floyd Day, of this place, left for Cincinnati on Tuesday last to lay in a stock of goods for the fall season.

Have your feathers renovated and insure yourself and family against disease.

J. E. SMALLEY.

Rev. J. M. Downing was in town on Wednesday and informed us that he would begin the free school at this place next Monday.

Judge G. B. Swango is just receiving a complete stock of dry goods, boots and shoes, hats for both ladies and gentlemen, groceries, notions, &c.

There has for some time been an epidemic of fever in the White Oak neighborhood in Morgan county, and the result has been several deaths.

Rev. J. T. Pieratt last week sold a suckling colt for $60, and yet it is impossible to convince our people that his money is raising good stock.

Lilly Evans who some time since ran a nail into her leg is still laid up from the wound, which has proven a very stubborn one to heal. She has suffered considerable pain from it.

I will begin operating the feather renovator at Hazel Green next Monday. Feathers delivered on that day can be taken home on the next.

J. E. SMALLEY.

A letter was received at this place last week announcing the illness of Mrs. Mattie Morse, who is on a visit to relatives at Paris, Tennessee. Mr. Morse is with her, and engaged in tuning pianos.

The funeral of Mrs. Frances S. Lykins, wife of Joseph C. Lykins, will be preached at Campton on Sunday, 24th September, 1887, at 11 o'clock, by Rev. W. P. Taubee and Rev. Wm. Lykins.

Jim Davidson is building a new house for John M. Rose at the place, and already has the frame in position. We understand that it will contain six or eight rooms, and be completed this fall.

Rev. J. T. Pieratt, will preach the funeral of Nathan Gibbs, the first Sunday in October, at 11 o'clock A. M., at the Christian church in this place. At the same time he will preach the funeral of a stepson of the deceased.

J. E. Smalley, of Campton, has purchased the feather renovator at this place and will continue the business, commencing operations next Monday. Persons wishing beds renovated, are invited to come in and inspect the work.

Rev. T. S. Hulbert, the newly married Methodist minister of Jackson, preached to a good congregation here last Sunday night. Bro. Hulbert will preach on his route to Lexington to attend the fair. They will also visit Georgia. Mr. Hulbert's former home, before their return.

I have purchased from Mr. Dills the feather renovator at Hazel Green, and will conduct the business at the present stand over THE HERALD office. Persons bringing their feathers to the place can have them made new for six cents a pound.

J. E. SMALLEY.

Kelly B. Day, of this place, left for Lexington, Ky., last Thursday morning, at which place he will matriculate in the Commercial College of Prof. W. R. Smith.

To our friends in Lexington we cordially commend Mr. Day, and we hope to hear of his good treatment at their hands. He is worthy of every confidence that we may be repaid in him, and we ask that our friends there extend him the courtesies which have in times past made the "Athens of the West" so famous for its hospitality to strangers. Too fair for its single tree all right.

Edward Marcum, whom every one in this section knows, writing from Campton under date of August 20th says:

Great coal, gas, oil and mineral excitement in Campton, and has been for the last several days. Today Governor G. Evans signed a bond to John L. Hagdon of Breathitt county, for 800 acres of coal, gas, oil and mineral in my presence, and said to the Governor: "Are you not afraid that you have destroyed your valuable farm by selling such rights?"

The Governor responded and said: "This is the first opportunity the rebels ever had to draw a bond." So the Governor got away with me, and there I quit the old man. He also said he wanted some company to own all the crawfish in Wolfe county.

Some people want the earth. It is not ours, or we would divide with them. The next best thing, however, is the world. We will give them the New York World, the HAZEL GREEN HERALD and choice of the History of the United States, History of England, or Everybody's Guide. These books are elegantly bound, about 400 to 500 pages each and retail for $2.00 a piece. With the two papers we will give either one of them, at the low price of only two dollars.

Subscribers will never again have an opportunity of getting so much information for so small a sum of money. Call at this office and look at the books. You can not afford to miss this opportunity.

The feather renovator at this place was Monday sold to J. E. Smalley of Campton. Sidney Hill, the recent proprietor, and his force of canvassers, Messrs. Sharpe, McClintock and Hurst left for their respective homes on Wednesday morning.

Mr. Dills, who is at Campton in Grant county, Messrs. Sharp and McClintock at Sandy Hook, in Harrison county, and Mr. Hurst at Franklin, Ohio. The feather renovator being in the upper room of this office, we saw a good deal of these gentlemen. They were very accommodating and THE HERALD thanks them for courtesies extended.

"The Great Awakening" is a book of 100 pages, consisting of choice new hymns and tunes, by the very best writers, together with a complete set of the Standard Gospel Songs and Hymns which have won a world-wide reputation in evangelical work. This book was prepared under the personal supervision of Rev. R. P. Jones for use in Gospel meetings. Price by mail 30 cents each or $3.00 per dozen. For sale by The John Church Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

We last week received one of the prettiest songs ever written, called, "There's no one like Mother to me," by Charles A. Davies. For a nice home song, to which both words and music are so very pretty, it is hard to equal. It can be played on the piano or organ, and will be sent to any address for only 22 cent stamps. Address the publishers, J. C. Green & Co., 39 and 42 Arcade, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Major W. H. Taubee, of the Red River precinct in Morgan county, brought us on Wednesday a twig from a white oak tree that contains thirty-seven well developed acorns, and says the trees are loaded with them. This will therefore be a most year in the mountains and save the people many dollars in fattening their hogs. Of the acorns on the twig mentioned there is not one blasted.

Nannie Greenwade, eldest daughter of Mrs. Mary Greenwade of this place, fell from a horse on Sunday evening last and sustained severe, though it is hoped not serious injuries about the head. She was unconscious when picked up, and for some time it was feared that her injuries would prove fatal, but she is now reported as much better.

See the new advertisement of G. R. Swango, which tells you about his goods he is receiving, and if you really want to save money call on him before you buy. He tells us that he bought these goods so low to enable the people from 25 to 50 per cent. on purchases and intends doing so.

The case of the Commonwealth against Mary Childs, charged with perjury in swearing in the Louisville City Court, and which was set for last Friday, was continued over until today. The witnesses who went from here will not get home before Saturday night.

FOR RENT.—The house and garden recently vacated by Dr. Taubee is for rent to a white man, who will pay monthly in advance and give approved security for good care of premises. Apply to COOPER & HERSTON, Real Estate Agents.

Several new tracts of land appear in the advertisement of Cooper, Herndon & Allen this week.

CAMPTON ON SUNDAY

THE HERALD MAN TAKES IN THAT PLACE ON A FLYING VISIT.

And is very favorably impressed with the Place, the People, and the Push and Enterprise he Witnessed.

In company with Mr. Dills, the proprietor of the feather renovator, now in operation at this place, THE HERALD man paid Campton a flying visit last Sunday. There were many changes no doubt since we were last at this little city, and with regret we looked upon the devastation that met our gaze.

Since we were there before the court house has been blotted out, and only recently one whole square on main street succumbed to fire. The picture is anything but beautiful, and the loss entailed upon our good friends of Campton is severe.

Notwithstanding all this destruction, however, we noticed many improvements which are very encouraging. New houses of good size and built in modern style stand on the site of the old ones, and point out in each instance the enterprise of the citizens of the town.

Among the new residences we noticed those of Newton Vaughn, Floyd Byrd, Joseph Lykins, Taylor Centers, &c. They are all elegant frame structures, and would do honor to the architecture of any city.

The Courts House, which is fast becoming one of the most popular hotels in Eastern Kentucky, under the able and accommodating landlord, S. S. Combs, and his amiable wife as landlady, was indeed a surprise to us. The office is a spacious room fronting on the street, and when finished, will be the most elegantly appointed of anything of the kind east of Lexington. Adjoining the office is a wash room with marble bowls, connected with pipes to lead off waste water. Clean towels are mounted upon rollers, and a nice comb and brush may be found just under the looking glass, and the weary traveler can refresh his outer person before he enters the clean, neat and tidy dining room for "solid comfort" to his long journey.

In addition to the building, there are also six sleeping rooms provided with grates, making a total of twenty-four rooms in the hotel, all which are easily and comfortably furnished. Mr. Combs does the patronage of the traveling public for his enterprise in trying to enter to their wants and comfort, and he assured us that he is doing far better than he anticipated when he first embarked in the business.

Nearly all the people were at church when we arrived, and we noted with pride the great interest in the new manse in religious matters. Rev. Mr. Ramey was conducting the service. The town was perfectly quiet and Sunday like in behavior, another instance of their respect for the Sabbath. It was the entire absence of rock throwing, cursing and the boisterous demonstrations generally, which are so often seen in the smaller towns on Sunday. During our stay of several hours, we did not hear a profane word or a wrangle.

The foundation for the new court house is completed and the plot in position to receive the new building. Five of extra good brick are to be seen in the yard, and of these the building is to be constructed. If one is to judge the work finished by the work begun, we have no hesitancy in saying that Wolfe county's new court house will compare favorably with any in Eastern Kentucky, and be a monument to the ingenuity of Taylor Center, the builder, Messrs. Clark, Whaley and Davis, of this place, are engaged on this building, and to those who know them this is another assurance that the work is properly executed.

We noticed that there is a lack of water in the place, and all along the road the streams which usually afford an abundance of water are as "dry as a bone."

While in Campton we met Deputy U. S. Marshal Day, and by the way, he had just arrested one Spencer, charged with playing U. S. roulette, whom he was taking to Mt. Sterling for an examination.

We also met Taylor Hurst, Esq., one of the leading attorneys of the place, and our efficient jailer, George Drake. Dave Hogg, the accommodating county clerk dropped into the hotel office for a few minutes and was as genial as of yore. Dr. Steele called, and was apparently in his usual good humor. We met Mr. Byrd at the hotel, and had quite a chat with Mr. Smalley, who has been a resident of Campton for some time and is quite popular.

We were much pleased with our visit to the place, and wish we were situated that we could see more of it and visit the people often, for they are a clever, hospitable, accommodating class of citizens with whom we should be proud to form a better acquaintance. All with whom we conversed think well of THE HERALD, and indeed nearly all of them take it.

In conclusion, we want to say to the outside world who are unacquainted with the people in pushy places, that Campton, that they will not get a better class of people anywhere. We are proud of the town, of her beautiful residences and the spirit of enterprise that prompts the people in pushing ahead. And for the people, especially one and all, we entertain the kindest feeling and best wishes.

On some other occasion, we shall perhaps be able to give a better account of the people and the place, and may give our readers a short history of the town and its inhabitants.

Blue-grass Farm

FOR SALE.

As my whole time is occupied with other duties, I offer for sale at private contract, my farm,

Containing 145 Acres, or if desired, will add 65 acres more to it. Said farm is situated in Clark county, Ky., 14 miles east of Winchester, on the C. & O. Railroad. There is a flag station at the lot gate, 100 yards from the house, and a side track about 300 yards below the lot gate.

There is a comfortable dwelling house, good tobacco barn, stock barn and other buildings upon the place. Two good ponds and several springs furnish water for all purposes. About 25 acres is virgin soil and, except 20 acres, none of the place has been cultivated for 20 years. It is one of the BEST GRASS FARMS IN CLARK, and there is enough timber on it to fence it for 10 years. I will sell it at a bargain. Any one wishing to purchase a good and cheap home in Clark will do well to call and examine this farm before purchasing elsewhere. For further particulars, address C. P. ## HOME, FARM AND GARDEN.

—Form cold mashed potatoes into small mounds by pressing them into a small-sized cup. Place on the top of each a bit of butter and bake until hot all through and well browned.

—Making the plum orchard a poultry run will greatly diminish the number of insects which prey upon the trees, when the farmer has but few trees and plenty of young chickens.

—Scalloped Onions.—Boil, and if large cut into quarters. Put into a shallow dish, cover with white sauce and buttered crumbs, and bake until the onions are growing deep, rich soil, now so generally condemned for fruit gardens, is of the first importance. Soil can not be too rich or deep if we would have good vegetables.—St. Louis Republican.

—Weeds in our farming absorb profits that might otherwise be very satisfactory, and they grow from year to year, increasing meanwhile their mastery, and yet there is no systematic effort to overcome them.—Troy Times.

—If the housekeeper will, when eggs are scarce, put away at night a quantity of mashed potatoes in which has been strained a tablespoonful of sugar, and mix it in the corn-cake batter next morning, they will be pleased with the lightness and sweetness of the cakes.—Farm, Field and Stockman.

—French Vanilla Creams.—To any number of the whites of eggs add the same bulk of cream, beat in a confectioner's sugar until stiff enough to mold into shapes with wetted fingers. Flavor with vanilla. Shape as you please and lay on plates, with waxed paper, if possible.—Cincinnati Times.

—Soda Biscuit.—One quart of sifted flour, one-half cup of soda, one teaspoonful of cream tartar, one teaspoonful of salt, mix thoroughly and rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter and wet with one pint of sweet milk. Bake in a quick oven.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

—In the winter the water from our wells seem to be warmer than that taken from the same place in summer. And so it is if the well is not deeper than twenty-five feet. Geologists tell us that heat or cold penetrates the earth's crust very slowly, a foot a week being the usual rate. Therefore, in summer we drink water that was cooling the winter before, and in winter the heat of the previous summer is just getting down to the water level.—Troy Times.

REST A NECESSITY.

Why the American People Should Turn Back to the Bible.

How few people there are who know what rest is in its best sense! Sunday, the day of rest, comes and goes and is but a part of life's futile fever, quickly past. There may have been a cessation from physical toil, but in thought the man or woman has often taken no respite. If we can get away from every-day thought, even for one day in the week, we would be better and stronger to do the work of the rest of the week, and yet in spite of professions of religion, in spite of Sunday sermons and prayers, the man too often lives on this day of rest as on other days. In too many parts of the country Sunday means an extra dinner and extra toil to the housekeeper. We have learned as a nation to work hard and energetically, but we have not yet learned how to save ourselves extra work. We must go to older nations to learn this. There is something wonderfully attractive in some of the descriptions of Oriental cities in which civilization seems to move along with perfect quiet without any of the loudness and rushing heard continually in Western cities. There is nothing that so deadens the better nature in man as the continual noisy, nervous strife in all kinds of trade and business. No time is left for anything but money-getting. Like an infectious disease, it is contagious to all orders of society. We must turn back to simpler ways, to more quiet, restful ways. All work will be better if done by standing hands.

There is nothing more injurious to children who are growing than to be hurried. Let them develop slowly and steadily and they will be stronger in nerve and mind. The most enduring trees are those of slow growth. It is better to keep a child back in school rather than push him forward. Nervous diseases of the most obstinate and subtle type which affect the whole life of the individual are sometimes brought on by the injudicious forcing of the child. If the child seems going to day-dreams let him be. His day-dreams may be only the means by which he will gain a higher life which no man or woman can gain until he has become conscious of a certain stillness that pervades the universe like a law, ever being broken by the cries of eager men, yet ever closing and returning with a gentleness not to be repelled, seeking to unfold and penetrate with its own healing the minds of the noisy children on earth.—M. E. Tribune.

—The annual consumption of feathers in this country for bedding purposes, it is said, amounts to 2,000,000 pounds, or 275 car-loads. To furnish this 3,000,000 healthy geese must give up their feathers to the shears in a year. The feather-furnishing geese are to be found chiefly in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Kentucky.

Is This What Ails You?

Do you suffer from the heavy headache, the constriction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse watery and acid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, watery and inflamed; ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, vaginal and nasal discharges; breath offensive; small and taste impaired; is there a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility? If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from Nasal Catarrh. The more complicated the disease, the more common, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. Thousands of cases annually, without making head or tail of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood, or more unsuccessfully treated by physicians, than the Catarrh of the Nose. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offered, in good faith, a reward of $500 for a case of this disease which they could not cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists, at only 50 cents.

When a mother starts out to seek her boys who are enjoying a surreptitious swim in the neighboring pond, there is likely to be a brisk movement of undressing kids.—Boston Courier.

When fragile woman sighs, deploring the charms that quickly fade away, What is the cause of her distressing state? Can check the progress of decay? The answer is, "No," but there is a remedy. Thousands of women daily merit it. The price of this royal remedy, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is but one dollar. Specific for all ailments of the female system, it cures all the weaknesses peculiar to women. The only medicine for such maladies, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction or the money will be refunded. It is sold in a wrapper. Large bottles $1. Six for $5.

Chief Arrested.
The news was received with the utmost satisfaction by the community that he had been arrested; but the arrest of a disease that is stealing away a loved and valued life, is an achievement that is a blessing to the community. Chills, cold, extreme debility, depressed spirits, and extremely miserable sensations with pains, were the result of the results of disordered kidneys and liver. Arrest the cause at once by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a purely vegetable deturgative that will ferret out and capture the subtle lung or blood disorder. Druggists.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE.
Mrs. MARY A. McCLELL, Columbus, Kan., writes: "I addressed you in November, 1891, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, heart trouble, and female weakness. I have been cured by your Golden Medical Discovery. Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery' and four of the Pellets. My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength returned. I am now as well as I can be. I am all day, or four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I am tired, I can rest on the sofa. I have a little baby girl eight months old. Although she is a little delicate in size and appearance, she is healthy. I give your Golden Medical Discovery all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after I began to use your medicine. I am very grateful for your medicine, and thank God for giving me that I am as well as I am after years of suffering."
